Q5. What is presentation? Discuss skills required for effective communication.

Presentation

A presentation is a formal oral communication in which a speaker presents information, ideas or a proposal to an audience, usually with visual aids such as slides, charts or a demonstration, in order to inform, persuade, train or motivate. It has three parts: introduction (greeting, topic, purpose), body (main points with examples and data) and conclusion (summary and call to action), followed by a question-answer session.

Skills required for effective communication

Skill	Description
Listening	Paying full attention, understanding and giving feedback; avoiding interruption.
Speaking / verbal skill	Clear pronunciation, correct grammar, suitable vocabulary, proper pace, volume and pitch.
Writing skill	Clear, concise, correct and well-organised letters, e-mails and reports.
Non-verbal skill	Eye contact, gestures, posture, facial expression and appearance that match the words.
Clarity and conciseness	Saying the message simply, without unnecessary words (the 7 Cs: clear, concise, concrete, correct, coherent, complete, courteous).
Empathy	Understanding the audience's viewpoint and feelings.
Confidence and positive attitude	Believing in the message and speaking with conviction.
Questioning and feedback	Checking whether the message has been understood.
Visual / technical skills	Using slides, charts and tools effectively.

Q6. Write an article on any one of the following in approx. 200 words: (a) Road safety (b) Digital Arrest

(a) Road Safety: Every Life Matters (178 words)

Road accidents are among the leading causes of death in India, taking lakhs of lives every year. Most of them are not unavoidable. They are caused by human carelessness such as over-speeding, drunk driving, using mobile phones while driving, jumping signals and not wearing helmets or seat belts. Poor roads, weak street lighting and stray animals add to the danger. Road safety means following the rules that protect drivers, passengers and pedestrians. Every driver should hold a valid licence, obey speed limits and signals, wear a helmet or seat belt and never drink and drive. Pedestrians should use footpaths and zebra crossings, and children should learn traffic rules early. The government must build better roads, install signs and cameras and punish offenders strictly, while schools, colleges and the media should run awareness campaigns. Quick help to victims in the first hour can save many lives. Road safety is a shared responsibility. If each of us drives with patience and respects others on the road, we can make our roads safe. A moment of care can save a lifetime.

(b) Digital Arrest: A New Face of Cyber Fraud (191 words)

'Digital arrest' is a cyber scam in which criminals pretend to be officers of the police, CBI, customs or a narcotics department and contact a person by phone or video call. They falsely claim that the victim is linked to a crime such as a drug parcel, money laundering or misuse of identity. Using fake uniforms, forged notices and official-looking backgrounds, they create fear and order the victim to stay on camera, tell nobody and follow their instructions. Finally they demand money as a 'fine', 'bail' or for 'verification of accounts'. Many educated people and senior citizens have lost lakhs of rupees in this way. It is important to remember that no real agency arrests anyone over a video call or demands money online. To stay safe, do not panic, never share OTPs, Aadhaar or bank details, and cut the call at once. Verify the claim with the local police station and talk to family or friends. If cheated, immediately call the national cyber helpline 1930 and report on cybercrime.gov.in, as quick reporting can help to freeze the money. Awareness, calm thinking and caution are the best protection against this crime.

Q7. How is group discussion different from an interview? Which mode do you prefer? Give reasons.

Basis	Group discussion (GD)	Interview
Meaning	Discussion of a topic among a group of 8-10 candidates under an observer/moderator.	Face-to-face question-answer session between the interviewer(s) and one candidate.
Participants	Many candidates together	One candidate at a time with a panel
Nature of communication	Multi-directional; candidates interact with each other	Mostly two-way, led by the interviewer
Purpose	To judge team spirit, leadership, listening, reasoning, initiative	To judge knowledge, personality, suitability, attitude, communication
Topic	General, current or case-based topic	Resume, subject knowledge, situations, HR questions
Role of candidate	Express views, support or oppose, build on others' points	Answer the questions clearly and honestly
Evaluation	Group behaviour, content, fluency, leadership	Individual answers, confidence, body language

Which mode do I prefer?

I prefer the group discussion, because (1) it lets me show many skills at once, such as speaking, listening, leadership and teamwork; (2) it is dynamic and I can take part by building on others' ideas instead of depending on the interviewer's questions; (3) it improves my communication and confidence through practice with peers; and (4) it is less stressful than facing a panel alone. However, an interview remains important, as it assesses an individual's depth of knowledge, so a candidate should prepare for both.

Q8. What is communication? Delineate various kinds of communication. Discuss barriers to communication.

Meaning

Communication (Latin communicare = to share) is the exchange of information, ideas, thoughts and feelings between a sender and a receiver through a medium so that the message is understood. Process: sender - encoding - message - channel - receiver - decoding - feedback (with noise as a possible disturbance).

Kinds of communication

Basis	Kind	Description
Medium	Verbal (oral and written)	Spoken words: talks, calls, meetings; written words: letters, e-mails, reports.
	Non-verbal	Gestures, posture, facial expression, eye contact, tone, symbols.
Formality	Formal / Informal	Through official channels and rules / casual talk, grapevine.
Direction	Downward, upward, horizontal, diagonal	Instructions from superior to subordinate / reports and feedback upward / among equals / across departments.
Number	Intrapersonal, interpersonal, group, mass	Within oneself / between two persons / in groups / to a large audience through media.

Barriers to communication

Barrier	Explanation and example
Physical / environmental	Noise, distance, poor network, faulty equipment, bad lighting.
Semantic / language	Different languages, jargon, ambiguous words, difficult vocabulary.
Psychological	Fear, stress, prejudice, lack of interest, emotions such as anger.
Organisational	Too many levels of hierarchy, rigid rules, information overload, lack of feedback.
Cultural	Differences in customs, gestures and values (a gesture may mean different things).
Personal / attitudinal	Poor listening, assumptions, status differences, lack of trust.
Technological	Server failure, virus, lack of digital skills.

Overcoming barriers: use simple and clear language, listen actively, give and ask for feedback, choose the right channel, reduce noise and respect cultural differences.

Q9. Group Discussion generates opportunity for improving speaking skills. Discuss speaking skills.

A group discussion (GD) is a regular chance to speak, listen and respond to others, so it steadily improves a person's speaking skills. Speaking skill is the ability to express ideas clearly, correctly and confidently in spoken language. Its main elements are:

Element	Description
Pronunciation and accent	Producing sounds, stress and intonation correctly so that the listener easily understands.
Vocabulary and grammar	Using suitable words and correct sentence structure.
Fluency	Speaking smoothly, without too many pauses or fillers (um, ah).
Clarity and organisation	Presenting points in a logical order: introduction, body, conclusion.
Voice modulation	Controlling pitch, tone, volume and speed to stress key points and avoid monotony.
Body language	Eye contact, gestures, posture and facial expression that support the words.
Listening and turn-taking	Hearing others, not interrupting, responding to their points politely.
Confidence	Believing in one's views and speaking with a positive attitude.

How GD improves speaking skills

- It gives practice in thinking quickly and expressing opinions in front of others, reducing stage fear.
- Feedback from peers and moderators shows mistakes in language and content.
- Listening to different views widens vocabulary and ideas.
- It teaches how to agree, disagree, support and conclude politely, e.g. 'I agree with you, however...'.

Tips

Read newspapers, practise regularly, record and listen to your own speech, speak slowly and clearly, and prepare key points before speaking.

Q10. Answer the following in 25 to 50 words

(a) Notice for staff meeting (39 words)

NOTICE. [College Name], [Date]. All teaching and non-teaching staff are informed that a general staff meeting will be held on [date] at [time] in the Conference Hall to discuss the semester examination schedule. Attendance is compulsory. - [Name], Principal

(b) What is summary? (43 words)

A summary is a short version of a text that presents its main ideas in the writer's own words, leaving out examples, details and repetition. It should be clear, accurate and about one-third of the original length, and must not contain personal opinions.

(c) Why is pitch of voice important in communication? (48 words)

Pitch is the rise and fall of the voice. It is important because it expresses emotion and attitude, stresses key points, avoids monotony and holds the listener's attention. A suitable pitch makes the speaker sound confident and clear, while a flat or shrill pitch may bore the audience.

(d) Overcoming nervousness (45 words)

Prepare and practise well, and rehearse aloud. Breathe deeply, speak slowly and pause when needed. Think positively and see the audience as friendly. Make eye contact, keep a relaxed posture and begin with a point you know well. Regular practice and experience gradually build confidence.
